The Secretary's Award for Public-Philanthropic Partnerships

Since 2012, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has partnered with the Council on Foundations to annually recognize 10 foundations and their public-sector partners through the Secretary's Award for Public-Philanthropic Partnerships. This competitive award showcases the collaborations between the public and philanthropic sectors and the excellence of their outcomes and innovative approaches. Throughout the years since the award's inception, winning initiatives have highlighted diverse partnerships in housing, community development, economic development, health, safety, education, workforce development, and disaster resilience.

Celebrating the 2018 Winners

HUD and the Council on Foundations are pleased to present the 2018 winners and celebrate the achievements of these foundations and their public-sector partners:
